Safety Session*

This month's topic:
Understanding the Focus 4 for Construction
Insurance – a wider view of Risk

Wednesday, February 10th, at 8am via Zoom

This presentation will be a discussion on the differences between the OSHA Focus 4 and the Focus 4 for Commercial Construction Insurance. Contractors spend a great deal of time and resources to control injuries and illnesses related to the OSHA Focus 4. Contractors also spend a lot of money for insurance. Understanding the Insurance Focus 4 will help contractors save money, get better coverage terms, improve Craft relationships, improve owner relationships, and achieve a more competitive bidding advantage.

This month's presenter is Mike Fredebeil, North American Leader of Construction Risk Control for the Willis Towers Watson Construction Practice. Mike has over 30 years experience in construction safety. Prior to joining Willis in 2005 he was a senior construction technical consultant and manager with Liberty Mutual. Mike's primary responsibilities include safety management and risk control solutions for Client owners, senior managers, risk managers, safety directors and human resource professionals. He also supports clients and Willis Towers Watson construction teams with risk assessments and potential coverage gaps.

Register today and reserve your space to hear from Mike and ensure your safety team is employing the best practices possible.
